

UNION LABOR IS BARRED FROM CRIPPLE CREEK

Wholesale Boycott Against Organized Workers of Whatever Occupation, Is Declared Under Auspices of the Citizens' Alliance and Military.

MINE CLOSED BECAUSE IT EMPLOYES UNIONISTS

Attitude of the Authorities Is to Rid District of All Workmen Not in Sympathy With Methods in Force There.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., June 10.—A general boycott on all union men, whatever their occupation, has been declared by the Citizens' Alliance in this district.

An agreement, drawn up by Tyson S. Dines, an attorney for the mine owners, pledging all business men of the district not to employ any man who is a member of or sympathizes with labor unions, is being circulated and is being generally signed. Indeed, in the present temper of the community no one would dare to refuse to sign it.

Apparently the military authorities approve of this stringent course, as they were pursuing a policy that is in harmony with it.

The soldiers are rounding up every union man they hear of. Whenever a new camp is reported, Gen. Bell orders a squad to take it.

"Shoot them down if they resist," is invariably the laconic command.

Considerably over 200 men are in the "bullpens" here and at Victor, though many have been deported and some have been released. All are unionists or suspected of union sympathies. What will be done with them is not known, but Gen. Bell's military commission, with its secret sessions, is slowly announcing their fates.

Military Commission Holds Secret Sessions.

This commission holds all-night sessions. It divides the men, who are found guilty of unionism, into two classes—those who can be prosecuted in the criminal courts and those who have violated no law, but are nevertheless unionists, and therefore will be deported.

The closing of the Portland mine yesterday afternoon at Gen. Bell's orders is indicative of the attitude of the military authorities towards union men. The charge against the operators is the "harboring of lawless men," but there are many who say the real grievance is that it employs only union men, being the only large corporation in the district that has compromised with the strikers and granted their eight-hour day.

The closing order is so worded that the mine cannot be reopened until the company does it with union men.

Following the closing of the Portland mine it was announced that the mine will begin to reopen tomorrow, the nonunion mines first and others later, and that business is to be resumed in the district at once.

All miners who want work must first secure a working card from the Mine Owners' Association.

News of the intended assault upon the Portland and the closing down of the mine spread like wildfire through the town, and the hills and bluffs about the station were black with staring humanity. A trainload of soldiers, with rifles sticking from every window, steamed away. Just as the train rounded the hill and stopped for the soldiers to make the ascent to the mine, a United States flag, hoisted from one of the mine houses. Deputies sprang up the zig-zag line of steps, scattering as they approached the mine and Gen. Bell and staff went straight to the general officers, where the general read the proclamation. Superintendent Kurie of the mine, listened to the reading and then said:

Forcing Men to Stop Operations.

"Do you want us to close right away?" "If it will inconvenience you, certainly not," replied Gen. Bell.

"Very well, then, let us wait until the shift comes off at half past four," replied the superintendent, adding:

"Do you want any of the men?" "I do not," said the general.

It was then arranged that 24 of the company's employees should be left in charge to guard the property and keep necessary parts running and Gen. Bell assured the superintendent that he would furnish all the guards necessary to help protect the mine.

Gen. Bell then dismissed all but a few of the soldiers and deputies, and with the remainder waited for the men in the mine to come off shift. Later about 300 miners walked out.

All the miners went quietly to their homes after being told that the mine was closed.

Gen. Bell and his staff then returned to Victor. There was an intense feeling of relief when news came that possession of the Portland had been secured without trouble.

Gen. Bell, on returning to town, said: "Business will resume, and from now on things will run right."

On Saturday and Monday resumption will continue, and later the Portland is to be reopened. The strikers, which have been closed for some days, will also be reopened, it is said.

North Side Closing Day.

The setting aside of a closing day satisfactory to all members was discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the North Side Business Men's Association Thursday night, but no agreement was reached. A resolution was adopted asking the express companies to extend delivery district north from St. Louis avenue to Salisbury street. New members were admitted and the Rev. B. E. Reed of Grace Episcopal Church was elected an honorary member.

WOULD GIVE HAWES ONLY TEN WARDS

Friends Fearful Lest His Name Will Not Be Mentioned in the Convention.

Friends of Harry B. Hawes are worried over the report that the Hawes delegations in all save the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth wards are to be unseated at the Democratic state convention.

The wards mentioned are considered Butler strongholds, and the Hawes followers have an idea that the plan now on foot is not to permit his name to go before the convention.

Mr. Hawes when asked today regarding the reports said:

"I have heard on what I considered as pretty reliable authority a story to the effect that the ward delegations known to be especially friendly to me are to suffer political decapitation. The information may say comes from some of Mr. Folke's friends, and developments of the next few weeks will show how correct it is."

There are 121 delegates from St. Louis to the three state conventions.

The compromise effected between Judge McCaffery and Tony Stuever gives Mr. Folke ten delegates in South St. Louis, but it is regarded as almost a certainty now that Mr. Folke will have at least 60 St. Louis delegates when the contests are settled.

PASTOR WHIPPED CHOIR LEADER

Fight Over Mining Stock Sale Causes Minister's Arrest and Disrupts Congregation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PITTSBURG, Pa., June 10.—Rev. Samuel P. Montgomery, pastor of the Jefferson United Presbyterian Church at Gill Hall, a Pittsburgh suburb, was held under $300 bail by Justice of the Peace Lewis on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Elder Edmund P. Heath of his congregation, leader of the church choir.

There had been hard feeling between the pastor and the elder for some time, and last Sunday, when Heath was standing in front of the pulpit, the minister made a remark which Heath did not like. The elder promptly called the minister a liar, knocking him down twice. He finally left him senseless behind the organ, minus four of his teeth.

Mrs. Elizabeth Heath, mother of the elder, tried to interfere, but she was knocked down the pulpit steps by the minister. The pastor had accused Heath of preying stock for which he is an agent.

The congregation is now split in two factions. At the hearing today Dr. Montgomery pleaded guilty to whipping the elder.

FREEDOM SOON FOR PERDICARIS

Sultan's Representative Sends His Own Son to Treat With the Bandit.

PARIS, June 10.—1:15 p. m.—The foreign office has received lengthy advices from the French minister at Tangier. He says Mohammed el Torres, the Sultan's representative at Tangier, has chosen his own son, who bears the same name as his father, to proceed to the mountain retreat of Raimun, the bandit chief, and present the final terms to secure the release of Messrs. Perdicaris and Varley.

The son already has departed on his mission. The journey will take a day or two. The officials expect a successful outcome.

They say Mohammed's choice of his son shows the sincerity of Morocco's efforts. The minister pays a high tribute to the cautious reserve and constant courtesy observed by the American and British admirals, which is construed as indicating that there is no likelihood of precipitating naval action.

Mrs. Newlywed and Mrs. Butterwise

WHAT HAPPENED AT BREAKFAST.
A Little Domestic Annoyance which Led to Some Good Advice.
Mrs. Newlywed had just left the house, and Mrs. Butterwise sat looking at his plate of untouched buttered toast. She knew Mr. N. was right. The butter certainly did have a decidedly "fishy" taste, and it was only a morning or two ago that it was recondent of onions.

Just then Mrs. Butterwise happened in, and listened patiently while Mrs. N. told her butter troubles. Then she said: "My dear, you will always have such annoyances so long as you buy butter in the old-fashioned way. The butter and even print butter is always more or less exposed, and butter quickly absorbs odors. The dealer is not always to blame; the trouble is often in your own refrigerator. Now I want you to try my plan. Buy Meadow-Gold Butter. It's the most delicious butter you ever ate, and is sealed at the creamery in an airtight, odor-proof package which brings it to the table fresh, pure and sweet. My dealer keeps it, and I am sure you will get it, if you ask him."

KNOX NAMED TO WEAR MANTLE LEFT BY QUAY

Gov. Pennypacker Thus Hurries to Comply Formally With Arrangements Made by Party Leaders in Pennsylvania.

TRUSTS LOOKING FOR A MAN TO SUCCEED HIM IN CABINET

Men Who Dictated His Appointment Will See That President Chooses Somebody Who Will Not Be Hard on the Combines.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 10.—Gov. Pennypacker today appointed Philander C. Knox successor to the late United States Senator Quay.

"I was asked yesterday afternoon whether I would accept in case Gov. Pennypacker wished to appoint me to the United States Senate in succession to Senator Quay," said Attorney-General Knox when seen at his country home at Valley Forge. He continued:

"I called up President Roosevelt over the long-distance telephone and laid the situation before him, asking his advice. The President said that as Pennsylvania is such an overwhelmingly Republican state, and as this appointment might open to me a long term of public service at the same time that it would tend to promote harmony among the factions of the party in the state, he thought it my duty to accept. 'If Gov. Pennypacker wishes to appoint me, and if my appointment will in the opinion of the state leaders make for harmony among the Republicans of Pennsylvania, I shall accept the appointment and stand for the regular election.'"

Trust Question

Not Considered.

"Have you considered the trust question in connection with the senatorship?" Mr. Knox was asked.

"I have considered nothing," he replied, "except that I was asked to accept this appointment, and have been assured that my acceptance will tend to promote harmony in the party."

"But don't you believe that your leaving the cabinet at this time will seriously interfere with President Roosevelt's plan for curbing the trusts?"

"I do not," was the reply. "President Roosevelt's anti-trust policies are his own, and my leaving his cabinet can have no conceivable effect upon them."

"But with you out of the cabinet can President Roosevelt be considered as strongly armed to prosecute the trusts as he has been with you there?"

"Whether I am in the cabinet or out of it, President Roosevelt will follow the policies he has already laid down."

"The President must, however, experience considerable difficulty in finding a man so well equipped to battle with the trusts as you have been, by reason of your familiarity with them prior to the time you became a member of President McKinley's cabinet."

"That is a very complimentary exaggeration," Mr. Knox answered smiling. "The idea that I have ever been especially familiar with trusts is a mistaken impression. The fact is that while I was in private practice considerably more than half my revenues were derived from fees paid me by private and individual clients. My corporate clients were not numerous, and when I was counsel for the Carnegie company it had not become a part of the United States Steel Corporation, so that it was not then a trust."

"But the success you have had in fighting the great combination has been mainly equipped by exceptionally able special counsel against them."

"Not at all," Mr. Knox replied. "There are hundreds of lawyers in the country who can do with quite as much success what I have done. The Northern Securities case presented a new study in the organization of that corporation was unlike anything ever before attempted. It was so peculiar that had it received the sanction of the law it might have been carried on until all the railroads of the country and all the other lines of human enterprise were gathered together into several great monopolies. That prospect was too fraught with danger to be disregarded, and we started out to check the scheme. By a small margin we won a victory. But I am not deserving of any special credit in connection with that success."

"Upon the being suggested to him that it was significant of the apprehension with which great corporations regard his continuance in his present office that he should have been proposed for the senatorship by recognized trust magnates, one of whom is a Democrat (President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad), Mr. Knox answered with a display of heat:

"Imputation that I am a man who can be calmed into abandoning a line of action which I have been pursuing and for which I may have been partly responsible, after I have in my own mind determined that that line of action is a proper one. I am not a man to be forced, any more than calmed, into doing anything except what I think is right, and what it is my duty to do."

"You must know, however, that the trust powers are back of this sudden springing of your name. It was insisted."

"The whole thing was hatched yesterday in the office of Mr. Cassatt and in the presence of Mr. Frick of the Steel Trust, and Mr. Cassatt, you know, is a Democrat."

"Is Mr. Cassatt a Democrat?" queried the attorney-general. "Ingeniously."

"Well, I didn't know that."

"How will your appointment harmonize the party when it is understood that an Allegheny County man is required for that purpose? You have abandoned your home in that country, have you not?"

"That is all a mistake," was the answer. "My home is still in Pittsburgh. This is merely my country place. The papers have said from time to time that I had offered my home in Pittsburgh for sale, and that I proposed to make this my permanent home. There never was any truth in that. I have maintained my voting residence in Pittsburgh; my home is my home, and until this thing came up I had no thought except getting back there to take up my private practice."

"Mr. Knox went to the farm of Mr. Cassatt, where the Farmers' Club, dining organization of wealthy men, gave a dinner. Among those present were Senator Penrose, Mr. Frick, Gov. Pennypacker, J. Donald Cameron and Richard R. Quay, son of the late senator."

UNSTEADY HAND SAVES HER LIFE

Deserted Wife Fires Three Shots at Her Heart, But Fails to Wound Herself.

FAIR CROWD WITNESSES ACT

Woman Now at City Hospital Begging That Husband Be Brought to Her.

In the presence of hundreds of persons, on their way home from the fair, Mrs. Maebel Quinn made a futile attempt to kill herself at 11:25 o'clock Thursday night at De Baliviere and De Giverville avenues.

Standing in the middle of the street, she fired one shot at herself, fired another as she ran down the center of the street and a third as she stumbled and fell. None of the shots wounded her.

"Because I love him so," is the reason she gives, referring to her husband, who, she says, no longer cares for her. She is at the City Hospital.

Mrs. Quinn is 39 years old. Her home is at San Diego, Cal. Fourteen months ago she was married in St. Louis. Her husband took her to New York. Seven weeks ago he returned to St. Louis and she followed two weeks later. They have been living at 220 South Broadway. A week ago, she says, he left her.

At 7 o'clock Thursday evening she went to his place of employment at 9 North Sixth street. When he saw her, she says, he put on his coat and hat and left. She stayed and cried while and then decided to kill herself.

Purchasing a revolver, she took an Olive street car and rode to the end of the line. She says she wandered about near the fair for several hours. At last she stepped to the middle of the street, drew the weapon and fired. She says she meant to shoot herself through the heart. She started to run and fired another shot as she was running. As she pulled the trigger the third time she stumbled and fell. A large crowd gathered. Detectives Phillips and Freese and Officer Downey came and took the revolver away from her and sent her to the hospital.

Friday morning she cried constantly and begged to have her husband sent to see her.

His Wound Not Explained. Jesse Vernon, connected with a wild west show at West End Heights, is at the City Hospital with a cut in the left side and a lacerated hand. His explanation that he received the hurts by falling downstairs as he was whittling a stick is not accepted by the police, and he will be held until a better explanation is forthcoming.

DEMOCRATIC FIGHT DROPPED

Court Dismisses Jackson County Case on Hearing Folk Committee Has Rescinded Its Action.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 10.—The Supreme Court today dismissed the mandamus case against the Jackson County Democratic Committee. By this proceeding it was sought to compel the committee either to place the names of all the candidates for state officers on the ballot to be voted at the primary election, or to call a delegate convention for Jackson county.

This order of the court was made after the return of the committee was filed which recited the resolution adopted by the committee yesterday rescinding its former action, which authorized the candidate for governor to select the Jackson County delegation to the state convention.

This leaves the committee free to make whatever arrangements it sees proper for the selection of the Jackson County delegation to the state nominating convention here July 15.

Sisters Identify Woman. The aged woman who was found unconscious at the foot of Wyandotte street and died Wednesday at the City Hospital, was identified Thursday afternoon as Mrs. Mary Pickens, an inmate of the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor, at Grand avenue and Cherokee street. She was taken away from the home Tuesday morning and it is supposed that she fell over the bluff where she was found. She was identified by two of the sisters, who took charge of the body.

ANGRY MOSLEMS STONE CHRISTIANS

Evident Resentment Over Presence of Warships at Tangier—New Conditions Expected From Bandit.

Special Cable to the New York World and the Post-Dispatch. (Copyright, 1904, by the Free Publishing Co.) TANGIER, Morocco, June 10.—The irritation among the Moslems caused by presence of the United States warships in port is increasing.

There have been several fresh instances of Christians being stoned in the streets. Europeans generally regard the sending of the ships here a mistake, believing that their presence is likely to retard the negotiations for the release of Mr. Perdicaris and his stepson by putting pressure on the Sultan. It is declared that the Americans are playing the brigand's game.

The negotiations with the brigand chief, Raisuli, are still proceeding with a view to sending an American naval surgeon to Mr. Perdicaris. The surgeon belonging to the cruiser Baltimore has offered to take the risk of going to Mr. Perdicaris, but the minds of the European countries stationed here insist that Raisuli shall give guarantees for the surgeon's safe conduct to and from the mountain where the captives are.

Important dispatches from Sultan Abdul Aziz, who is at Fez, arrived last night. They contained directions about replying to Raisuli's demands. It is anticipated that all these demands will be granted, but there is believed to be danger that the brigand chief may impose new conditions.

Took Poison by Mistake. Mrs. Annie Clark, 22 years old, of 908 North Tenth street, is under treatment at the City Hospital for carbolic acid poisoning. She says she took the acid under the impression that it was medicine, and had no thought of committing suicide. She was received at the hospital under the name of Annie Adams, but says her right name is Clark. She says she is living with her husband and has had no trouble with him.

JUDGE SCORES NEW YORK POLICE FORCE

Opinion Defines Picket Method as "Outrageous Criminal Lawlessness."

NEW YORK, June 10.—In granting a permanent injunction restraining a police captain from stationing officers in a safe near Washington Market for the ostensible purpose of preventing gambling on the premises, Justice Gaynor of the Supreme Court has handed down a decision announcing what he calls acts of oppression as commonly practiced by the police. He was particularly severe in denouncing the captain in question whose action he declared to be "outrageous criminal lawlessness."

Justice Gaynor continues: "It is by methods such as these that millions of dollars have been extorted annually in the City of New York and the police officials have been able to retire, one after another, with great wealth. His (the captain's) acts clearly constitute the crime of oppression and it is fortunate that they have not provoked violence and even bloodshed, for the plaintiff has the right to resist them with all the force necessary."

"We read of such official conduct in Europe and profess to be astonished over it, but we have had more of it in the city of New York for the last 25 years and especially during the last eight or nine years than there has been in any other place in the civilized world."

"Such police lawlessness is far more dangerous than all the gambling combined. It brings in its train all of the vices and debases government and society. The law can be effectual and permanently enforced only in a lawful, orderly and uniform manner."

Will Be Fairer If You Drink ROSE'S LIME JUICE

It enables one to better withstand the sun's sizzling rays; counteracts its exhausting influences; invigorates the whole system by its cooling and healthful qualities. Prevents the disagreeable effects commonly caused by a change of water; makes impure water drinkable.

A tablespoonful of Rose's Lime Juice to a glass of water and sweetened to taste, makes a most delicious, wholesome and refreshing beverage. Ask for it at Soda fountains, or at grocers in bottles containing enough to make 50 glasses.

Mrs. Cervera, Widow of Bullfighter, Boarding a Train for Baltimore

MATADOR'S BODY IS TAKEN EAST

Burial of Manuel Cervera Will Take Place at Widow's Home in Baltimore.

The body of Don Manuel Cervera, the Spanish matador, who was shot and killed Wednesday morning at the Mozart Hotel by E. Carleton Bass, an American matador, who was associated with Cervera as an employee of the Norris Amusement Co., has been taken to Baltimore, Md., the former home of Mrs. Cervera, for burial. Mrs. Cervera accompanied the body. She said she would return to St. Louis to assist in the prosecution of Bass.

As told in late editions of Thursday's Post-Dispatch, a verdict of homicide was returned at the inquest Thursday afternoon. The verdict was an open one and after it was announced Bass was taken to the Four Courts to await action of the prosecuting attorney.

Regarding the verdict, Coroner Funkhouser stated he was confident that Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dalton would order Bass' release when the transcript of the evidence at the inquest reached him, as the evidence plainly showed Bass had shot in self-defense. The reason for returning an open verdict of homicide, he said, was that the coroner's office had ceased six months ago returning qualifying verdicts, having been informed by City Counselor Bates that to return a verdict exonerating or implicating a prisoner was beyond its province and that only verdicts of facts should be returned.

At the inquest Bass was represented by Byron F. Rabbitt, United States commissioner, whose aid was enlisted by friends Bass had made prior to the tragedy. Mr. Rabbitt's efforts were voluntary, Bass being entirely without means.

Egyptians Cultivated Wheat. Ancient monuments show that the Egyptians cultivated wheat before that country was invaded by the Persians. Wheat has been cultivated and eaten in many forms, but it remained for America to give to man pillsbury's vites, the greatest of all brain and brawn foods. It is the concentration of all the life-giving properties of wheat—the food of millions.

Free Wine

We want to send you FREE, costing you absolutely nothing, a trial bottle of "Drake's Palmetto Wine." Drop us a postal and it comes a-humming. You know that way back in bible times people took wine "for the stomach's sake." But the modern grape wine is not good either for stomach, brain or pocket. "Drake's Palmetto Wine" is vastly different. It comes gushing from the palm-fruit of our own sunny South. It is a superb appetizer, tonic and nerve-bracer. It cleans and purifies the blood and thus feeds brain and brawn. It builds up athletes and neurasthenics.

We Prove All This by Sending You a Free Trial Bottle on Request.

HANNAH ELIAS TO FACE HER ACCUSER

Dramatic Scene Expected When Millionaire Platt Takes Witness Stand to Sustain Charges.

OTHER MEN ARE INVOLVED

Attorney for Negress Says He Will Make Public List of Those Who Paid Tribute.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 10.—One of the most exciting scenes in the history of criminal trials in this city is expected for late this afternoon or tomorrow morning when Hannah Elias and her victim, John R. Platt, meet face to face in the Tombs Police Court.

Doubt is expressed that aged Mr. Platt will have the courage to meet the ordeal. But District Attorney Jerome is determined to put him on the witness stand. Hannah Elias will confront the man who charges her with wheeling $85,000 from him, confident of her power to shatter the evidence and to prove that she and not her accuser is the real victim of blackmail.

Meanwhile, at least four elderly millionaires, unnamed up to this time in connection with the case, but who are known to have paid tribute to the woman, are in a panic. Hannah Elias has said that she will drag the names of other men into the case, but her lawyers' failure to obtain full disclosure of the names of the men who paid tribute to her has enraged the negress.

No one can tell what bombs she may explode on the witness stand. Swayed by race feeling and a hatred of the white men who have finally turned against her, she is likely to go to any length, even should she take no action at this time. However, it is certain that the name of every man who has ever visited her will be divulged by her new lawyer, J. Frank Wheaton, a negro, retained yesterday to defend her.

He threatens through a side suit to expose every white man who has ever known the Elias woman.

Lawyer and Physician to Be Exposed.

It is certain, however, that the woman will name two men, a lawyer and a physician, as the prime movers in the blackmailing scheme. She will charge these men with extorting immense sums of money from her, and with bleeding the aged Platt as no sinner was ever bled before. Little doubt remains that warrants for the doctor and lawyer will be issued within 48 hours, and that disclosures of all organized plots to squeeze millionaires will follow.

The most interesting visitor at the district attorney's office today was August

The Wise Housewife

Uses C-N From Cellar to Garret.

This is because the wise housewife knows that an ounce of C-N saves a pound of doctor's bills.

C-N is just a little brownish-colored fluid with a pleasant odor, perfectly safe and harmless to use and a perfect wonder at destroying germ-life. Put it in every bit of cleaning water used. It takes only a little. The C-N helps the soap to do the cleaning and kills everything in the shape of a germ or insect.

One of the best things about C-N is that it's no trouble to use. You simply add it to the water used for cleaning. You would do the cleaning anyhow. Why not add the C-N, and do some germ and insect killing along with the cleaning? Order C-N from any dealer.

THE POST-DISPATCH WEATHER BIRD AT THE BIG GOVERNMENT BIRD CAGE

MRS. PHIPPS TELLS HER SIDE OF STORY

Declares Her Husband Choked Her When She Tried to Regain Children.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 10.—On the heels of a most pathetic statement issued to the public by Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps, whose children were forcibly taken from her at the Netherlands Hotel last Friday morning, and who, although at the point of death, rushed to their rescue, came the announcement that her husband had filed in the district court, at Denver, Colo., a suit for divorce, and that a scandal of international proportions, bringing in the names of men and women prominent in the most exclusive society of New York, Pittsburgh and Denver, would ensue.

Lawrence C. Phipps is a nephew of Henry Phipps, Andrew Carnegie's old partner. He was treasurer of the Carnegie Steel Co. and his estate is valued at $2,000,000. He is one of the many young men and women who came to New York to make their fortune, and who, after a few years of struggle, found themselves in the hands of a powerful and ruthless man.

"You can say for that if Mrs. Phipps tells the whole truth about her husband's treatment of her she will astonish and shock the world," said J. Campbell Thompson, her personal attorney, last night. "If this must be a legal fight it is going to be a fight to a finish, and Mrs. Phipps will not come out second best."

Mr. and Mrs. Phipps have both been conspicuously prominent in New York society and in Pittsburgh, their home. It is predicted that the trial of the suit will be the most startling domestic scandal disclosed in years, and that its approach will cause many persons whose names will be dragged in to seek cover beyond the reach of the courts.

Mrs. Phipps' attorney seeks an injunction to restrain J. P. Morgan & Co., the United States Steel Corp. from paying to Mrs. Phipps further dividends on stocks and bonds formerly held by her husband, but now in her possession.

Mrs. Phipps was Miss Genevieve Chandler of Pittsburgh. She is wealthy in her own right. She is one of the oldest families in Pittsburgh.

Pressed by the statement issued by her husband, who laid all their domestic troubles at her door, Mrs. Phipps said she was awaiting an operation which might have cost her life when her children were taken from her, has issued a statement since the kidnapping she has been confined to her bed, and her physicians fear the result may be fatal. She said that the operation was postponed, will have to be performed in the morning, and that she was being treated by the best physicians in the city.

"Mrs. Phipps told me that her husband assaulted her in the train," said Conway, the house detective at the Netherlands Hotel. She tells a very strange story of what happened.

"When she got to the Pennsylvania station, she says she found her children on the car with the nurses. She did not stand on ceremony, but grabbed them in her arms and started out of the car. Mrs. Phipps, the Canadian girl, called out: 'Mrs. Phipps, your wife is taking the children.'"

"Mrs. Phipps says she became frenzied when she saw her husband rushing toward her. She let go of one of the girls in order to free her arm, and when the nurse tried to take the little one Mrs. Phipps pushed the nurse and Miss Derbyshire's head went through the car window. "Mrs. Phipps says her husband then came up and caught her by the neck. He had her ejected from the car. "It suspected something was up several days before the kidnapping. I saw the detectives hanging around. I knew they had hired a suite in the Savoy across the street from which they could see Mrs. Phipps' apartments. I was also suspicious about them, but she said the girls had been in her employ for years, and she had perfect confidence in them."

It was said last night by a man near to the family that the trouble between Mrs. Phipps and her husband dated back to a time when she was a young girl, and that it was the result of the former's jealous disposition. It is charged that she had been on both sides of the house. The climax came just after Mrs. Phipps had completed a million-dollar home at Pittsburgh. The home, although one of the finest in America, has not been occupied.

The couple practically separated two years ago at Denver, where Mrs. Phipps went for her health and her husband followed her. He presented $25,000 to Denver for the building of a hospital for the treatment of tuberculosis. One of Denver's leading physicians, it is alleged, stopped treating Mrs. Phipps upon learning of Mr. Phipps' inclination to jealousy.

Mr. Phipps once threatened to denounce his wife's infidelity to Denver's leading physician. He alleged that his wife was about to take the girls to Europe, beyond the reach of the United States courts.

NO "SANE" FOURTH FOR NOISY CHICAGO

Plan to Do Away With Pistols and Cannon Crackers Succumbs to Ridicule.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, June 10.—The "gun-shoe" Fourth of July planned for Chicago seems destined to failure.

The noiseless, well-regulated, disciplined Fourth is now but an iridescent dream. The distribution of $10,000 worth of illuminated Declarations of Independence has been abandoned.

There will be no free distribution of firecrackers, torpedoes and other harmless pyrotechnics. It is likely that the whole scheme for a "sane" and "popular" celebration of the glorious Fourth will be abandoned by the Chicago Amusement Association, of which C. M. George Fabyan is the recognized head and front.

It is largely a matter of money. Col. Fabyan figures that $50,000 net would pay the bill. Thus far nearly $5000 has been subscribed and of that sum nearly $2000 has been expended for food and for the work of promulgating the new idea. The "net" so far realized is but a drop in the bucket.

The school teachers, to whom notices of the plans of the association were sent, did not regard them seriously. They laughed at the proposals contained therein. The public school pupils laughed with their teachers.

H. D. Baker, selected for secretary of the finance committee, last Friday called for a meeting of the committee and suggested that every member resign for the reason that the finances of the entertainment organization were quite insufficient for a dignified celebration.

Thirty stenographers and secretaries who have been busy with the affairs of the office since the first of the month, are now more busy than ever in buying fireworks for children than they were in buying gasoline and matches. That speech defeated the support of the fire insurance agents of Chicago, 150 of whom had been previously pledged to support the "ideal" Fourth.

The question now is whether to abandon the whole celebration, return the money subscribed and quit or to send the "net" to the treasury and have a more popular outdoor night exhibit in Grant or Garfield parks.

SWEDISH STUDENTS WILL SING

"Midsummer Day" at Fair Will Be Observed by Vocal Societies June 24.

Friday, June 24, will be "Midsummer Day," the day when the sun shines all day—all night—in Sweden and Norway. The day will be observed at the World's Fair by a procession, a Maypole dance in front of the Swedish pavilion, and a concert of the Swedish vocal societies.

The parade will enter parade gate at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon and advance to the Swedish pavilion. The big parade of the pavilion will be used as a Maypole and in the native costumes of their country the young men and girls of Sweden will dance national dances.

HOUSE BURNED, OWNER AWAY

Taylor Avenue Residence Takes Fire From Kitchen After Head of Family Departs.

Within half an hour after H. M. Saylor left his home at 4015 North Taylor avenue Thursday night, for a business journey through the South, the residence was partially destroyed by fire.

Mr. Saylor left the house at 8 o'clock for the Union Station, where he took a train for the South. While the family was at dinner, fire broke out in the back room on the second floor, which was completely burned out, and the rest of the interior was flooded with water. Part of the furniture of the first floor was saved.

The cause of the fire is not known. There had been no fire in the room and there were no electric wires and nobody had been in the room for an hour. The damage is between $2000 and $4000.

LOST SWEETHEART BUT GOT DAMAGES

Kansas Man Thought All Was Fair in Love and Gave Rival Drubbing in Girl's Presence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 10.—John W. Tulley and John Boling were rivals for the smiles of the same girl. Boling was much the younger of the two, and seemed to be making headway with the girl. Then Tulley whipped him right in the young woman's presence and thus got a clear field.

Boling sued Tulley because of the whipping, and a jury today gave him $150. Of this amount $50 was for compensatory damages, that is to compensate him for the whipping he got, and $100 was for exemplary or punitive damages.

Tulley's case was a peculiarly aggravated one, because while Boling sat in the parlor with the young woman who was playing the piano, Tulley came to the door and beckoned him into the dining room and then beat him unmercifully.

Aged Indiana Recluse Tortured by Robbers Until He Reveals Hiding Place of Gold.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., June 10.—It was learned here today that Jeremiah Landis, a bachelor living in Adams Township, was last night brutally assaulted and robbed and left, bound and gagged, on the floor of his home. It was generally known that he kept hidden about the premises a large sum of money.

According to his story the robbers compelled him to tell where his money was hidden by pouring kerosene on his bare feet and setting fire to it. The sheriff and posse have returned from an unsuccessful hunt for the robbers.

BOY SUSPICIOUS OF FAIR POLICE

Georgia Youth of Fifteen Wouldn't Show Railroad Ticket Until Taken to Station.

IS SEEING THE FAIR ALONE

He Won Guessing Contest and Newspaper Sent Him to City as Its Guest.

Kelly Wells, a Hampton, Ga., boy 15 years old, who came within 41 of guessing the actual total attendance of the opening day of the World's Fair, is doing the Exposition as the guest of a Georgia newspaper. The police, after a brief experience with him, believe he is able to take care of himself in spite of his youth.

Kelly Wells came to St. Louis alone, secured a room at 300 Laclede avenue, and is spending most of his time at the Exposition.

He was boarding an Olive street car when Officer Cohan of the World's Fair Police Station arrested him.

"Do you live in St. Louis?" asked the officer.

"No, sir," said Kelly Wells. "I'm from Georgia."

"What are you doing here?" asked Cohan.

"Seeing the Fair," said Wells.

"You're sure you didn't run away from home?" said the policeman.

"Yes, I'm sure," said the boy.

"Have you a return ticket?" asked Cohan.

"Yes, but it is in my room," said Wells.

Cohan was a little suspicious, and he decided to take Kelly Wells to police headquarters at the Fair and let the sergeant interrogate him.

The boy gave a satisfactory statement to the sergeant and also showed a railroad ticket to Hampton, Ga.

"Why didn't you show me that ticket when I asked you?" said Officer Cohan.

"I didn't want to take any chances," said Kelly Wells. "I was suspicious of you, just as you were of me."

"That'll be all for you," said the sergeant.

Young women may avoid much sickness and pain, says Miss Alma Pratt, if they will only have faith in the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all young women how much Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was completely run down, unable to attend school, and did not care for any kind of society, but now I feel like a new person, and have gained seven pounds of flesh in three months."

"I recommend it to all young women who suffer from female weakness."—Miss ALMA PRATT, Holly, Mich.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO YOUNG GIRLS.

All young girls at this period of life are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; her advice is freely and cheerfully given, and her address is Lynn, Mass.

Judging from the letters she is receiving from so many young girls Mrs. Pinkham believes that our girls are often pushed altogether too near the limit of their endurance nowadays in our public schools and seminaries.

Nothing is allowed to interfere with studies, the girl must be pushed to the front and graduated with honor; often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to recover the lost vitality,—often it is never recovered.

A Young Chicago Girl Saved from Despair.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to thank you for the help and benefit I have received through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. When I was about seventeen years old I suddenly seemed to lose my usual good health and vitality. Father said I studied too hard, but the doctor thought different and prescribed tonics, which I took by the quart without relief. Reading one day in the paper of Mrs. Pinkham's great cures, and finding the symptoms described answered mine, I decided I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I did not say a word to the doctor; I bought it myself, and took it according to directions regularly for two months, and I found that I gradually improved, and that all pains left me, and I was my old self once more."—LILLIE E. SINCLAIR, 17 E. 23d St., Chicago 117.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy to be relied upon at this important period in a young girl's life; with it she can go through with courage and safety the work she must accomplish, and fortify her physical well being so that her future life may be insured against sickness and suffering.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

PREVENT ALL SUMMER BOWEL TROUBLES

Undigested food in the human body will ferment a hundred times as quickly in summer as in winter. Consequence—stomach, liver, bowels, poisoned, thrown out of order; sour stomach, gases, colic, diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera, appendicitis, and in some regions yellow fever and the plague. Little children suffer terribly everywhere. The proper thing is to send all impure and unnecessary matter out of the body every day—not give it a chance to sour in the stomach and bowels. You will stop hot, feverish conditions and keep your insides cool and healthy. To do it, use a medicine that is pleasant to the taste and not harsh and violent in its action. The only safe system-cleaner to take in summer, because it will not cause diarrhoea or griping, is Cascarets. All drugists, 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C.C.C. Regal Oxfords fit at the heel and ankle like gloves.

You can put them on when you buy them and wear them all day with comfort. And they'll keep their shape even longer than you will care to wear them.

You'll never have that uncomfortable "all-feet" feeling which comes from an ill-fitting Oxford.

Regal Oxfords are shaped on special Oxford lasts, that's why they cling snugly at the ankle—never "gape" at the sides—and for the same reason never chafe nor pinch.

No "slack" leather, no wrinkling, no slipping up and down at the heel.

You can pay all sorts of prices for Oxford shoes; but, honestly—every cent you pay over $3.50 might be put to better use. A trial will prove it.

Women's Regal Shoes embody all the latest custom designs of leading bootmakers of New York, London and Paris. 90 new styles—one price.

Praise for Weber's Band.

Large audiences have testified their appreciation of the playing of Weber's band at the Fair during the past two weeks.

Arrangements for an eight-day congress of Indian teachers to be held in the Hall of Congresses at the Fair, beginning June 25, have been completed, according to the announcement of Dr. S. M. McCowan, superintendent of the government Indian exhibit. The speakers for the congress are: W. A. Jones, commissioner of Indian affairs, Washington, D. C.; Dr. W. J. McGee, chief of the department of anthropology at the Fair; Archbishop Glennon, President Francis, Director of Exhibits, F. J. Y. Skiff; Dr. Calvin M. Woodward; Dr. Louis F. Soldan; Dr. Howard J. Youthful Purse Snatcher.

Officer William Murphy of the Central district arrested James Patton, 15 years old, of 2334 Pall street, on a Spring avenue car Thursday afternoon, after seeing him snatch a pocketbook from Mrs. Helen Pasquiere of 3719 Cook avenue, he says. The pocketbook, which contained $5, was recovered.

Several detectives have been engaged to assist the "independents" in their work and a sufficient sum of money for expenses for several weeks has been raised by subscription. The first detective to be retained was "Big Jim" McConnel, a former associate, Joseph McDermott, was retained by the "independents" as a "bribe" of $3000 paid on behalf of a Bedford suspect.

Lines of battle have been drawn, and now it is intimate hostilities will not cease until the real murderer of the school teacher has been apprehended and the scandal, now only hinted at, has been probed to the bottom.

The Bedford citizens who are prepared to lead the attack on the authorities, including those who have protested from the first that the arrest and trial of McDonald was not justified by the evidence, were today said to have arranged to conduct an independent investigation of the murder, with the intention of forcing the arrest ultimately of the man they believe to be the murderer.

Following the arrest of McDonald, I frequently heard that money was being used to make the coal heaver a victim in order that the real murderer might escape," he said. "But that this was actually the case was never proven."

"It is sufficient to say that the effort made by Bedford authorities to hang McDonald in spite of his ailing probably was based on prejudice, and that the suspicion pointing in another direction was ignored in consequence."

Men interested in the new investigation will not reveal their plans, but say they expect results shortly. Bedford authorities declare utter ignorance of any good reason for continuing the search for the Schafer murderer further, insisting that all the evidence done has been to "throw over" evidence already found worthless.

LEADERS NOW SEEKING PARKER'S RUNNING MATE

Politicians at Conference in New York Regard Head of Ticket as Settled and Turn to Discussion of Other Interests.

NO NAMES ARE SUGGESTED FOR THE VICE PRESIDENCY

Col. Guffey and Thomas Taggart Probable Candidates for the National Chairmanship—Tammany Has Made Final Effort.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 10.—Prominent Democrats are hovering around the Hoffman House discussing who shall be the running mate of Judge Parker on the Democratic ticket. It is current gossip that a man will be decided upon while the leaders are here and thereafter he will be named as the ideal Parker candidate for vice-president.

Parker took a big jump in the presidential race today as the result of a general review of the situation made by the Democratic leaders at the Hoffman House. David B. Hill was the central figure in the conference. It was the opinion of Mr. Hill and the other leaders that the fight for the nomination is over and that Judge Parker's nomination is certain.

Congressman John E. Lamb of Indiana, chairman of the delegation from that state, expressed the general feeling of those present when he said: "In Indiana we consider Parker's nomination as settled. We are considering no other outcome. I do not see any other serious factor in the situation. Judge Gray I regard as unlikely to develop into a formidable candidate. I consider Mr. Cleveland out of it. There is no one else in it, and Judge Parker has the nomination won."

Mr. Hill talked with Mr. Lamb, David C. Flanagan of the New Jersey delegation, who reported the result of the New Jersey meeting, and other leaders. He would not discuss the situation for publication, but he did not attempt to conceal his opinion over the outlook.

The collapse of Tammany's fight on Parker, which becomes more than ever evident, added to the feeling of elation. Murphy's hostility is no longer regarded seriously.

Gorman-Smith Meeting Was Anti's Final Effort.

The leaders are of the opinion that the utter failure of the anti-Parker combination formed at the Gorman-Smith meeting here a week ago was the final demonstration of Judge Parker's domination of the field. This effort to return the Parker tide failed so signally to elicit any popular response that it is now believed that all opposition will fade away.

An entirely new version of Col. James H. Guffey's part in this combination was given when one of the leaders declared that the effort to get Guffey into the fight on Parker had failed, and that he had told those who tried to get him to join it that he would not commit himself to any candidate until he reached St. Louis, and then he would vote for the strongest man.

Col. Guffey expressed the opinion that Judge Parker was now the strongest man. The Parker men are confident that his about 60 Pennsylvania votes will be for Parker. Col. Guffey is expected to be in St. Louis today. If he comes he will have a talk with Mr. Hill and William F. Sheehan, who will return from St. Louis this afternoon.

There is a probability that Col. Guffey may be put forward by the Parker men for chairman of the national committee. He would like to see that that is done. Thomas Taggart, head of the Indiana delegation, is also an aspirant for it. Congressman Lamb is in the city in Mr. Taggart's behalf.

"Indiana will vote for Judge Parker until he is nominated," said Mr. Lamb last night. "We have no candidate for vice-president, though if ever should be a candidate from our state we could easily supply one. It is generally supposed that the Republicans are going to take their candidate from Indiana."

HORSE SHIES, WOMAN HURT.

Street Car and Bad Streets Joint Cause of Accident.

Mrs. Josephine Peltier was thrown from her wagon at Euclid and Scott avenues at 10 o'clock Thursday night, and the wheels passed over her, breaking both her legs. Mrs. Peltier was driving her horse home at Windom, Mo., in a one-horse wagon loaded with mattresses. The horse shied at a street car. One of the wheels went into a ditch, the wagon lurched, Mrs. Peltier fell out and was run over. The horse ran a short distance and stopped. Street car men looked after her until police came and she was taken to the City Hospital. She blames the bad condition of the street for the accident.

RUSSIANS BOYCOTT U. S. AMBASSADOR

Mr. McCormick Subjected to Many Persecutions Because of America's Sympathy for Japan.

Special Cable to the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, June 10.—The Berlin correspondent of the Morning Express telegraphs:

"Information has reached me from a reliable source that Robert S. McCormick, the American ambassador to Russia, is being subjected to severe persecution in Russian high society because of the sympathy for the Japanese which has been shown in America since the outbreak of the war. 'Ambassador McCormick has been shown respect in the Leuchtenberg palace, one of the most magnificent residences in St. Petersburg, but he has now received notice to vacate the premises. This notice is attributed solely to the anti-American feeling of the owner of the palace, who is related to the Russian imperial family. He is reported to have said: 'My ancestors would turn in their graves if they knew that the family home was inhabited by the representative of a country which has shown itself hostile to Russia.'"

"Indeed, high society in St. Petersburg has instituted a boycott against Mr. and Mrs. McCormick, and she is quoted as expressing a desire to leave St. Petersburg as soon as possible."

QUAKERS SEE THE IGORROTES.

Philadelphia Visitors Entertained at the Fair Friday.

Members of the Philadelphia party which came to St. Louis as an escort for the Liberty bell were the guests of Dr. W. P. Wilson of the Philippine commission Friday afternoon at the Philippine reservation. About 45 members of the party, including Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia, and accompanied by Mayor Wells, arrived at the Fair on a special car at 1 o'clock. A tour of inspection through the reservation and all the native villages, including the Igorrotes and Moros, followed and ended with lunch, which was served at the Philippine restaurant at 3 o'clock. Tonight the visitors will be shown the Pike.

HONESTY POLICY PAYS DIVIDENDS

Contractor Who Returned $200 Given Him by Mistake Placed in Line of Profit.

Charles Mulville of Alton has found that honesty is the best policy and that virtue is not only its own reward, but that it also pays, and has demonstrated the veracity of several other copybook homilies.

A year ago Mulville had a chance to add to his bank account $200 of the money of the Chicago & Alton railroad which did not belong to him. As a contractor he had constructed a reservoir for the railroad company at Carlinville. When he received a check for the amount he found that it was $200 in excess of the amount he had agreed to do the work for.

Mr. Mulville did not attempt to take advantage of the unintended liberality of the railroad company. To make sure that the money got back into the coffers of the company he went to Chicago and personally returned it to the officers. He was cordially thanked, and was assured that the company liked to do business with honest men and would not forget that he belonged in that class. During the year that has followed Mr. Mulville has received several large grading contracts from the company and when he has not been busy on contracts he has been kept busy under orders of the maintenance of way department of the road. Thursday he was awarded a contract for $30,000 worth of work near Centralia, Mo.

BILL BOARDS HAVE RIGHTS

CHICAGO, June 10.—The four years' fight here against unsightly bill boards has failed. The appellate court today declared the city's billboard ordinance invalid and unreasonable. The decision was made in the case of a billboard company which has for four years been in litigation with the city over the ordinance. The court holds that the owners, if they do not import others, have the constitutional right to erect on vacant property any structure they please, no matter how unsightly.

It's June, and Old Sol is beginning to make things warm for us. Your thoughts should therefore be turned toward securing cool, summery attire to escape the discomfort of the hot, sizzling days that are about to arrive. There's every reason why your hot-weather clothes should come from Famous. You can choose here from positively the largest and best-selected stocks in the World's Fair City. It requires tailors of exceptional ability to produce summer clothing that satisfies our standard of excellence. The workmanship on the summer garments housed here is characteristic of the cleverest ideas known to the tailoring talent. Every garment has had careful and skillful handling, thus insuring its permanence of shape and satisfying abilities—all the airy and lightweight fabrics and correct patterns sanctioned by the fashion creators are here in abundant varieties—as to values, candor will urge you to admit that in every instance Famous gives you more for your money than any other store in St. Louis. Come Saturday and supply your summer needs.

IGORROTES SUFFER
SOCIAL SET BACK

Compelled to Decline Invitation to Ice Cream Festival at Borromeo Church.

TRIBAL CHAPERON SAYS NO

Regrets Sent to St. Charles Church Worker Who Wanted Them as Guests.

It has been officially determined that the Igorrote head hunters shall not be permitted to go into society.

A formal invitation for them to attend a polite function has been turned down by Dr. W. F. Wilson, chairman of the Philippine Exposition Board, on the ground that if such a precedent were set Antonio and his Bontoc swells would be deluged with invitations to pink teas and afternoon receptions and the dog-killing business at the Igorrote village would be seriously interfered with.

Another reason is that the Philippine exposition officials do not want to take the responsibility of encouraging anything which might lead to imitation of Igorrote fashions, which are extremely decollete.

Thursday afternoon Dr. T. K. Hunt, chapman of the Igorrotes, received a letter from Mrs. O. J. Martin of the St.
Charles Borromeo Catholic Church, inviting him to come to an ice cream function at the church, bringing some of his handsome and most stylish Bontoc swells.

Dr. Hunt was nothing loath, and the head hunters were de-lighted, but the approval of Dr. Wilson was necessary.

The chairman of the board was perplexed.
He wanted to deny the Igorrotes an opportunity of mingling with good society and getting on to the ways of American society, and he sympathized with the laudable purpose of Mrs. Martin and her associates, which was to help pay off the church debt,
but he foresaw that the acceptance of the invitation would bring such a flood of like head hunters would be the next necessity.

So though it pained him, he said the Igorrote would have to accept their fate pleading a previous engagement to attend a dance at their village.

Are Bitterly

Disappointed.

The disappointment of the head hunters when they found that they would not be permitted to shine in society was keen.
They were more disappointed because it was desired that they should give feast in connection with the ice cream festival of the church ladies, and it is not every day that the Igorrotes have a chance to top off a dog feast with ice cream served by women of fashion.

The Igorrotes have heretofore received invitations to private receptions, but it was not until the invitation to the ice cream feast was received that Dr. Hunt thought best to have a ruling on the question from Dr. Wilson.

What makes the disappointment of the Bontocs the harder to bear is the fact that their traditional enemies, the Philippine Scouts, who are also their rivals for social favor, have been accepting invitations and mingling in white society ever since they arrived in St. Louis, and have shown a disposition to flaunt their social successes in the faces of the Bontocs.

American Protective Tariff League Secures Small Subscriptions for Republican Campaign.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 10.—The American Protective Tariff League, an adjunct to the Republican national committee, has been sounding the leading manufacturers of Indianapolis as to what may be expected in the way of contributions.

Charles H. Brown, a representative of the league, has been calling on the manufacturers in this city. Fort Wayne, Lafayette and other places. A manufacturer said he understood that the emissary had received subscriptions of only about $200.
One Indianapolis concern subscribed $10 and another $20, and a $100 subscription was obtained in Fort Wayne.

The league is sending out "stand pat" tariff placards.

These Jolly Drummers Are Making Every Building at the Fair and on the Pike a Festival Hall During Their Visit to St. LouisTHIS IS GALA
DAY FOR 10,000
T. P. A. AT FAIR

Convention of Traveler's Protective Association Will Be Followed by Parade to Exposition and Reception at Missouri Building.

THEN CRY WILL BE: "AWAY, AWAY TO FESTIVE PIKE"

This is the festival day of the "festive drummers" at the fair. Ten thousand of them are expected to be there during the afternoon and they will "do" the Expon-sition with characteristic thoroughness.

The Travelers' Protective Association has been having its annual convention all week at Springfield, Ill. Friday morning the convention adjourned in a body to the Fair, the thousand delegates coming down on a special train, which was to arrive at 11:30.
Arrangements were made for the train to be taken direct to the Fair, and at 1:15
the delegates were to arrive at the Missouri building, where a reception is to take place.
There will be addresses by Gov. Dockery, Mayor Wells, President G. W. Donham and others.

During the afternoon there is to be a reception at the T. P. A. building, and after that the delegates and their friends will make a tour of several of the national buildings.

During the evening the "drummers" will
"do" the Pike.
In addition to the delegates from the convention, there is a large attendance of members of the fraternity from St. Louis and the surrounding territory.

The traveling men will be in evidence at the Fair for several days, as most of them who have come from a distance to see the sights of the Exposition at their ease.

LOUIS T. LE BAUME IS

COMPLETELY VINDICATED

Louis T. Le Baume of St. Louis, national secretary-treasurer of the National Travelers' Protective Association, has been completely exonerated and declared innocent of charges of irregularities made several weeks ago by the national board of directors when he was suspended from office.

A secret session of the association was held Thursday at the convention, now in session at Springfield, Ill. Le Baume was declared innocent. Mr. Le Baume was completely exonerated and declared innocent of charges of irregularities made several weeks ago by the national board of directors when he was suspended from office.

T. P. A. Elects Officers.

BISHOP WAS LOST IN ALASKA

For Three Days Church Prelate Subsisted on Uncooked Rabbits,

But Did Not Complain.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TACOMA, Wash., June 10.—The Rev.

Peter Rowe, Episcopal bishop of Alaska,

became lost in March on an Alaska trail, and for three days was forced to live on wild rabbits. The story of his experience reached here today from

Fairbanks, Alaska.

Bishop Rowe was en route from the Alaskan district to the coast, when he lost his way. He started out with a party of four men and a dog team, and after traveling for three days he found himself lost. He was forced to live on wild rabbits, and he was very weak

when he was found. He was taken to Fairbanks, and he is now recovering from his ordeal.

WOULD IRRIGATE
VISITORS' THROATS

Agricultural Building Exhibitors Complain Drinking Water Cannot Be Obtained There.

THEY ALSO WANT A BAND

Spring Near Entrance Was Stopped
Up by Exposition Employees, Say Exhibit Owners.

Visitors to the Agricultural building, the largest exhibit palace at the fair, are daily clamoring for drinking water.

Not only is there none to be had there free, but none can even be bought there.

The only water in the building to which the public can possibly secure access is in the washrooms. Even there no cups are at hand, and the thirsty tourist must place his or her ruby or non-ruby lips to the faucet.

The condition of affairs has resulted in the appointment of a special committee of the exhibitors in the building to demand improved conditions of the Exposition management. The committee consists of Joseph A. Deffrey, chairman, of St. Louis; J. W. Durkee of New York, A. R. Glor of Indiana, O. P. Stone of Virginia, and Messrs. Lawson, Critchfield and Jones.

They propose to ask the Exposition to place a free drinking water booth in the center of the building and also have a concession drinking water booth near by.

There is a spring on the lawn outside the north entrance to the building. It is about 100 feet from the building. Formerly it was heated, and the water was not fit to drink.

But it burst forth farther down the hill, and the water was not fit to drink. The spring, they say, the employees placed a tall pipe around the spring, bottling it up.

Now it is necessary for a person to bring his own cup and reach down inside this pipe to get water.

On Liberty Bell day a small pupil of the Drexler school made a market "hit" with his exhibit. He had a tall pipe around the spring, bottling it up.

SIDELIGHTS
ON THE FAIR

By ROSE MARION.

SOLDIERS aren't training their horses as they used to do. The animals of the officers of the army are disciplined as to feet and general action, but they laugh with the same unbridled liberty as a school girl giggles. It is not for me to give advice to the heads of the army, but the following suggests attention:

President Francis was standing on the rostrum of Peace monument on the Plaza St. Louis. Before him was the crowd of children, women and men brought to the fair by Liberty Bell day.

There was noise in the crowd. It had been standing behind ropes for a long time and was celebrating its new freedom with talk.

President Francis raised his hand. Silence came over the jumbo-covered plaza.
The boys stopped shouting, the girls out-"comfabling" and their older relations also maintained silence.

President Francis began to speak. He spoke of the "far-famed Liberty Bell." He reached this point, "The Exposition management appreciates the honor imposed upon it," when there came an interruption. It was a laugh, a horse laugh.

The horse who made the disturbance was the property of an army officer and participated in the previous parade. His laugh was more than a whinny. It was a roar. The horse threw back his head and laughed loud. Just as if he thought President Francis was a joker and fill his audience British.

THIS is a reception story. Mrs. H. H.
Vinnage, formerly of Birmingham, Ala., now of Hotel Buckingham, is responsible for it. She says that a Jefferson Guard told it to her.

It was morning and the guard had rested
a few hours from the question torture.
That's the only reason that he was not overcome when a woman spoke after this fashion to him:

"Are the lagooners here?"
"Yes, madam; right over in that direction."

The guard pointed. The woman was so glad she started at once, but like Lot's wife, she turned around, not for a last look,
but for one more question:

"Please tell me what time they feed
those lagooners. I'm just crazy to see them eat."

KENTUCKY had lent her horse to Alabama that a reception in honor of the christening of Birmingham's iron man, Vulcan, might be held.

Happily, her guests were talking on the gallery. President Francis had just remarked that he would be the property of Kentucky for one whole day, June 14, Kentucky day.

To the steps came a young woman. Her expression was of intense interest. Smilingly she spoke to President Jackson of the Birmingham Commercial Club.

"Please, may I be introduced to Mr. Vulcan?" she asked softly. "I'm so anxious to meet him."

Mr. Jackson didn't talk mythology to the young woman. He suggested refreshments first and left the breaking of the news to some one else.

FINGER PRINT
SYSTEM PATENTED

Denver Man Informs Chiefs of Police
That He Originated This Manner of Detecting Criminals.

HE WILL PROTECT HIS RIGHTS

Says Municipal Departments Must Arrange With Him, Which They Can Do for Certain Sum.

Police departments throughout the country may run against a snag when the finger print system of identification of criminals is introduced. A resolution was adopted at the eleventh annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, which closes today at the fair, deciding to use the finger prints in conjunction with the Bertillon system of measurements now prevailing. The police believe that with both systems the identification bureau will be complete. The finger prints will also assist the police in fastening crimes upon criminals, particularly upon burglars whose thumb or finger marks are left upon window panes where burglaries have been committed.

R. A. Helm of 1434 Locust avenue claims to have the exclusive right to use the finger print system in the United States.
He is a fair electrical contractor and says that he has just received letters from the patent office at Washington, showing that his application for patents has been granted. Mr. Helm resides now at home at 1497 Lawrence street, Denver, Colo., and he told the Post-Dispatch at the fair police station that he would, Howard S. Bailey of Denver, had written to him that his patent had been allowed and that no finger prints could be used in this country, unless he had his "finger in the pie."

Can Use for a Consideration.

"That is why I called here to see Chief Kiely," explained Mr. Helm to the Post-Dispatch, after the captain in charge of the station had told him that the chief of police had not yet decided to use the finger prints.

He said that he had decided to use the finger prints in all the big cities of the United States. They do not know, perhaps, that they have got to ask my permission first. My patent covers the whole country, and they can get my permission for a consideration, they want to see the chief of police before they go too far with the system, so that we might have an understanding about the matter. I don't pretend to know anything about the police departments, to infringe upon my patents, but I have a lot of time and money to get letters.

Might there not be a difference in the system proposed by the police chiefs and yours?"

"Of course, they will claim to have something different and try to beat me to a technicality, but my lawyer tells me that my patent covers the system pretty thoroughly," declared Mr. Helm.

He said that he had sent a letter to the chief of police of St. Louis, asking him to have a representative here who read a paper on the subject and introduced pictures showing that the finger prints were in use there and have been for some time.

"I have not investigated the system they are using there, but if it is the same as mine, they surely will have to see me," said Mr. Helm.

Leader of Freight Handlers' Strike
Threatens General Tieup.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Lawrence Curran, leader of the striking freight handlers, after a protracted conference with prominent labor men here, has issued a statement that he will call out the freight handlers from New York to San Francisco unless the strike here is settled within the next three days.

Curran estimated that more than 50,000 men would be affected if the new strike is ordered.

"I will give the railroads and steamship companies now fighting the freight handlers a break in three days," he said, "to grant the demands of both organizations or
I will have a general tieup of the coast."
He said that he had not yet received answers to his demands, and he said that he would not be granted, I will call out every freight handler between here and San Francisco.

Czar's Fine Gift to Americans.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The Czar of Russia has sent to the New York Stock Exchange a magnificent solid silver gift as a token of his appreciation of the courtesies shown him by the American people during his visit here.

The gift has not yet been disclosed, although some idea of its size and value is afforded by the fact that three large cases are required to hold it. It is said to be of beautiful workmanship.

No "rings" for Liberty Bell should be allowed in any part of the country.
"You may have the corpse" is the Colorado translation of "beas corpus."
The police force is all right; it's their political bosses who need a drubbing.
Kaiser Wilhelm wears an expansive smile over the newspaper wrecking in Colorado. He has had trouble with newspapers himself.
The Kentucky Democrats demand a revision of the tariff in a conservative spirit. The Iowa dove has found a roost in Kentucky.
Oregon is "first gun," the date of her election falling in June. The state, however, has better claims to consideration than her place as a gun. The community that is only a gun is not worth the powder that would explode it.

EMBARRASSING MR. FOLK.

Secretary of State Cook, who is striving for renomination on the Democratic ticket wants harmony—harmony with himself on the ticket and the machine in control of the offices. In an interview in the Republic Mr. Cook professes indignation at the charge that the machine leaders are trying to injure or embarrass Mr. Folk.
"The men who have the interests of the Democratic party at heart," he said, "are now engaged in trying to get together for the fall election."
Mr. Cook is not one of these men. He wants to get together with Mr. Folk on the same ticket. He wants to secure a renomination for secretary of state regardless of the interests of the party—the interests which he has betrayed to his own interests and those of the corrupt lobby and the corporations. The men who have the interests of the party at heart are opposed to Mr. Cook and cannot get together with him because by doing so they would stultify themselves and the party.
"The man who would stoop to embarrass him (Mr. Folk) in any way at this time," continued Mr. Cook, "would not be loyal to himself or the party."
Mr. Cook is chief among those who are trying to embarrass Mr. Folk. The greatest embarrassment to which Mr. Folk could be subjected would be his nomination on a ticket with Mr. Cook, whose participation in a boodle deal Mr. Folk exposed and denounced, and whose record as a lobbyist and a collector of campaign funds from favored corporations is admitted. Mr. Cook not only collected campaign contributions from corporations, contrary to law, but violated another law by concealing their source.
If Mr. Cook wants to avoid embarrassing Mr. Folk and has a spark of regard for either the interests or the reputation of the Democratic party he will retire from public office and party management.

It is significant that neither Cleveland nor Bryan, the leaders of the two extreme wings of the Democratic party, was cheered in the Kentucky Democratic conventions. The cheers were for Parker and McClellan. Evidently the Democrats want to get together.

ELECTION BY PROTERBRANCE.

If Prof. Charles F. Beger of Chicago can get himself taken seriously we may yet be spared the expense, tumult and anxiety of political elections.
Prof. Beger studies the craniums of candidates, and finds the number, size and special peculiarities of protuberances, deduces the qualifications possessed by the aspirants.
The professor can tell whether or not a man is logical, willful, obstinate, conscientious, and by examining heads enough it is possible to hit upon one which contains all the characteristics of a really great executive. Him we shall choose, for there won't be anything else to do. Nobody would think of taking second or third best when the best is to be obtained. Politics will be less exciting if such a mode of election is adopted. But it will be more certain. There will be no doubt of the capability of public servants, who will be tried beforehand, as it were. Prof. Beger should be encouraged.

The woman who said she would not buy a souvenir book, giving as a reason that she would only find out the things she had missed, paid to the vastness of the Exposition a tribute which no orator has surpassed.

DEMOCRATIC UNCERTAINTY.

The majority of the Kentucky delegates to the national Democratic convention favor Judge Parker, but the delegation is not instructed. This means that the Kentucky Democrats, like the Democrats of several other states, while favoring Parker, are open to conviction. Judge Parker in their opinion is the strongest man now and they believe him to be the right man for the nomination, but conditions may change.
The cause of the open mind of so many Democrats in the South and West is Judge Parker's silence. Although these uncertain Democrats believe that the distinguished New Yorker has decided views and that his views are sound, they have no public proof of either proposition.
There is an element of danger in the situation. A convention composed of delegates without decided choice or instruction is subject to temporary influences which may result in impulsive and unwise action. Judge Parker might have changed uncertainty into certainty by a statement of his views. He might have crystallized the Democratic sentiment by satisfying the great mass of Democrats. The party must fight on a basis of public service, and before he can expect to be elected he must be a public servant.

THE OUT-OF-TOWN CORRESPONDENT

BY REUBEN JASPER,
Special World's Fair Correspondent.

To the Editor of the Hayville Herald.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 9.—Well, after I got that summer garden shock the other night I was so teetotally flabbergasted that I felt like a d—n Lot-and-his-wife stunt and flout from this modern Gomorrah, but as I already had my board paid a week in advance, and as the landlady frowned in a most distressing manner when I asked her if she wouldn't kindly return me what I had so rashly handed her only two days before—amounting, Mr. Editor, to as much as I ordinarily make in Hayville in a month, over and above cheroot money—I concluded that I had better stick it out a while longer.

You see, Mr. Editor—and you have known me, man and boy, as long as I have lived, which amount of years there is no use of stating here—I am recognized as a leadin' light and prominent citizen of the town of Hayville, and I can't afford, nor do I desire, at this writin', to have my name associated with the kind of carryin'-in-on of the sinful population of St. Louis. Hence it was I fled the scene at the summer garden herein before mentioned and determined to get open this town as soon as possible, before my association with evil should give me any chance to church me in Hayville.

Then it was that my landlady refused to return me my money, cash in hand paid, and thereby become an alder and abettor of the powers of evil afore said.

Now, ain't that tough luck for a man who's been a-tryin' all this time to avoid even the appearance of evil?

I'm a good deal wiser, Mr. Editor, than I was when I struck this man's town five weeks ago, soon after the grand spring opening of the World's Fair, but even yet there is some things I simply can't get used to.

One of these is the way they keep—don't keep—the Sabbath day holy. Why say? If any set of men in Hayville should attempt to do on Sunday what they do in this town, the in-tire populace would arise in its wrath and lay the place in ashes.

People here go to the Sunday saloon more regular than they go to Sunday school, and it's a cold, cold day when some Sunday beer-canner or saloon loafer don't get out his pogram and send some fellow-traveler through this vale of tears to the morgue.

People in all big towns, it seems to me, take a peculiar delight in shootin' each other full of holes and stickin' knives into one another, at most any time, but dog my cats, Mr. Editor, if I don't believe the people of St. Louis are different from them in almost any other town.

True, they like to play one another during the week—a sort of a pastime they have, it seems, quite as fascinating as golf—but it is on Sunday that they go about it with the greatest zest and seem to take the keenest delight in puttin' one another out the way.

If you don't believe my word, just get the habit of readin' the Monday papers. Of course I ain't here to knock, you understand, but I guaranteed you that I would tell the truth when I landed here from Hayville, and that course I have persistently followed ever since the day when I 'fessed up to bein' buncoed by a young feller near the Union Depot.

I am so tired today that I don't feel like settin' for no picture to illustrate this letter, but if you feel like it you can have a picture drawn showin' me in the act of dodgin' a bullet, and label it:

"Mr. Jasper witnesses the Sunday cannonading in St. Louis."

He growls at every little child and dog upon the street,
And hurls at them anathemas and spurns them with his feet;
He throws swear words at motorman and conductor on the car,
And growls at the bartender while standin' at the bar;

He snarls at the policeman, at janitor, and maid,
With bravado invincible—he never seems afraid;
But, metaphorically speaking, put your heel on his toe—

He goes through life with snarl and snarl, a most unhappy man,
Too weak to make a real foe, and make a friend he can;
But there's one thing that he can do, this surly, snappy pup—

For he can drop the shut-

THE CLUBWOMAN'S VIEWS

By THE SOCIETY GIRL

"WHAT do you think?" asked the Society Girl, "of the Alice Roosevelt hat that all the girls are wearing?"

"I haven't given them much thought," said the Clubwoman. "But that suggests to me the reasoning of President Francis and Secretary Stevens on World's Fair advertising. That horrid Mr. Shaw, you know—the Secretary of the Treasury—asked President Francis why he didn't advertise the Fair more. But President Francis was a match for him! Doesn't he talk beautifully? He told Mr. Shaw that he knew the Fair was well advertised because he had received so many letters asking what it was like."

"Secretary Stevens is awfully clever, too. Don't you think so? He said it was much better to under-advertise the Fair so that those who came would not be expecting much and would be astonished. Wasn't that crusing? I do so love pleasant surprises; don't you? There's only one thing puzzles me, but I'm sure Mr. Stevens knows."

"What is that?" asked the Society Girl.
"Why, how will they get the people here to surprise them if they don't advertise? But weren't those answers sarcastic? I'm sure Mr. Shaw is ashamed now."

"But how did Miss Roosevelt's hat remind you of Mr. Stevens' sarcasm?" asked the Society Girl.
"Why, my dear," said the Club Woman, "don't you see? Both are so heavily veiled!"

WASN'T LIKE THE OLD KISS
By Nikola Greeley-Smith, Granddaughter of Horace Greeley.

(Written for the Post-Dispatch.)
"Didn't he bring you an umbrella and bracelet which he put upon your arm and then kissed you?" asked the husband's lawyer.
"Yes," replied the fair petitioner for a divorce, "but it wasn't like the old kiss."

—Report of Divorce Trial.
The heroine of this interesting divorce court incident has introduced a new element into the world's chronicles of domestic wrangling that enliven the daily newspapers, that of expert testimony on kissing.

But it is not enough for the lady to say that it was not like the old kiss. She should tell why and state wherein there was a difference, so that her unenlightened sisters may benefit by her experience and know at last whether they are getting the real thing in kisses or merely a more or less clever imitation.

There are a great many wives who would be very grateful to any one who by a combination of long experience and subtle analysis could explain how to tell the difference between the "old kiss" and the new.

Of course, any woman out of the vegetable class can feel the difference. But how is she to tell that the facts justify her feelings, and that the post-nuptial kiss perfumery is not just the natural, inevitable transition from the dream realm of romance to the real world of fact?

It must be a gift surpassing that of great charm, or supreme beauty, or transcendental intelligence to be endowed with an emotional intuition so perfect as to detect at once the matrimonial crisis indicated by the change from the "old kiss."

But suppose every woman had it! What portent of doom sounds in the very suggestion. Every time a good, sober citizen left home in the morning, or returned at night, it would develop upon him the ardor of courtship days into his kiss of greeting, or good-by, or else face the prospect of immediate divorce.

The bracelet of atonement, the tarsi of repentance, would no longer cover the occasional perfumery of the best of husbands. It is the kiss that counts. It mattered not to the fair seeker after divorce whose explanation of her alienation from her husband was contained in the terse statement that his kiss upon his return from London was not like the old ones, that the bracelet he brought as a peace offering was of the finest. What after all, is 12-karat gold, when served with counterfeit affection? True love is measured by the sincerity of the heart, and the real turning husband whose kiss does not come up to the standard may take back his gold and await service in his wife's suit for divorce.

That is unless he is married to one of the calm, bovine beauties who believe that affection at its highest has a marigold quality of turning everything into the precious metal with which they love to adorn themselves, and that the road to domestic happiness starts with a sunburst, takes in the ear-rings and a necklace and culminates in a tarsi.

For women of their temperament, or rather lack of it, will not worry if their husband's kisses are not like the old ones, provided their pocketbooks remain the same, and he who finds it easier to preserve a status quo in jewelry rather than in affection had better be sure to select a wife whose sentimentality is not so marked.

Just a Minute

With the Post-Dispatch RHYMERS AND JOKERS.

"Get the Habit."
Sweet it is, when comes the night
And one year for pure delight,
With a friend or two to go
Hiking round our matchless show,
And to view the myriad splendors,
To which every soul surrenders.
As it goes, with pleasure rare,
Rubbernecking round the Fair.

How it thrills the heart to see
Among other virtues which the management possesses is that of intelligently promoting as well as safeguarding the city's trust in the Exposition. The Post-Dispatch is the only paper that has the courage and the good judgment to criticize the management of the World's Fair, and as one deeply concerned in the success of that majestic enterprise I thank you for doing so.

I know it to be a fact that the Exposition is not being advertised in the Eastern press, and the result of this negligence is not only a loss of attendance but when mention of the Fair is made it is most generally to disparage it. If the Exposition management gave as much attention to exploiting the splendid vastness of the Fair, which is particularly true of the Board of Lady Managers. Another objectionable feature is to be found in the fact that the foreign buildings are not open to the public and may be visited only by presenting a certificate of admission—a character voucher, so to speak. As the Fair in real measure has been created by public appropriation of tax money, and domestic, the public, it appears, should not be thus discriminated against, for it must be borne in mind that it is not the exclusive set, but the masses that make success of an exhibition possible.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Owing to reading continuing complaints from parents and guardians of lost children, I would like to make a suggestion in regard to same, i. e.: Obtain a shipping tag and a name, address and other particulars on same, then attach to a button-hole or to the garment of the boy or girl respectively, which will save, no doubt, considerable anxiety to all parties concerned.

RBD TAPE AT UNION STATION.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Passengers for trains are greatly annoyed by the conduct of some of the gatekeepers at the Union Station, especially in regard to suburban trains.

On Wednesday I inquired at gate 7 for the "Frisco local train and was pushed back and told it had not arrived. As it was nearly time for it to depart, I went to gate 5, which did not happen just then to be closed, and got in. I found the train was waiting, as I supposed.

Thursday night the guard at gate 5 turned the "Frisco passengers back, telling them to go to gate 7. After waiting at gate 7 till a minute or so, I found gate 5 was open, and the train was waiting, and as soon as we were seated the train pulled out. I am sure many were left behind, because of the incorrect information given by the guards.

Since the erection of the double line of iron fencing, there has been a lot of trouble on account of the foolish and useless red tape at the gates. Some of the guards let anybody in, and if they are pushed back, they are pushed back. Once you get beyond the first line of fence no one bothers you. As suburban passengers don't have to show tickets all this careful guarding of gates is not only useless but a loss of time and temper.

COMMUTER.
DIRECT LEGISLATION AND BRIBERY.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Having read in the Post-Dispatch Wm. Preston Hill's instructive comments on the Initiative and Referendum, I prompt me to offer a few notes:

Disparity in legislation can make the government of the United States as powerful a tyranny over the people as any form of despotism ever established, because any required number of able-bodied men can be legally hired or conscripted for service in the army or navy to slaughter the public indefinitely to enforce the most vicious laws that any villain can bribe, the Congress of the United States to enact, and the people, who are the victims of the measure to abrogate the most vicious law that can be established by bribery. Indeed, bribery in legislation is a greater source of obstruction to the rights, welfare and progress of the citizens of the United States than all the other crimes of men combined.
J. K. HOWARD.

Have You Asked Yourself This?
After all, it sounds better to say that you "reside at the Rhododendron" than that you "live at Mrs. Smith's boarding house," although it is quite possible that Mrs. Smith's beaunty is going by an alias. But if a man can jolly himself into the belief that he is a "regular guest" instead of a mere "boarder and roomer," why not?

Ingalls' Downfall.
When John James Ingalls fell he fell hard. Beaten out of the United States Senate by the Farmers' Alliance, he became an ordinary reporter for the yellowest of newspapers, doing anything from a National convention to a prize fight. A short time after his defeat in 1891 he visited Chattanooga, broken, miserable, hopeless. Yet he had been president pro tem of the Senate for four years. He rode to Lookout Mountain, a stranger in the car, recognizing him asked, "Is this not Senator Ingalls?" "It is, that is, it was," was the reply. They talked of many things. Ingalls declared that he was in great distress. "Oh, get up at daylight and stand on the point of the mountain," advised the stranger. "It'll make a new man of you."

Some whisky was drunk at the hotel that night. Next morning at break of day a party started out to the point, Ingalls and the rest apparently pretty ragged. The former Senator looked like a Georgia "cracker" who hadn't had a wash in a year. His clothes were rusty. He had no collar on. His head-covering was a cheap, much-worn traveling mob-hat. For general dilapidation of the old master of sarcasm and invective removed his hat reverently, looked around him at the scene of grandeur and uttered the words, "I take my hat to Nature!" There was a brief silence. Then he addressed himself to the handful of tourists, describing in his masterly style the prominent features of the landscape. Those who heard him will never forget the incident, but no record of the speech was possible.—New York Press.

Japan Sits in the Seat of the Scornful
Harold Bolce in the June Booklovers' Magazine.
A realization that Japan believes itself to be the twentieth century teacher of mankind may prepare the West to understand why the reassuring smiles, ceremonial phrases and prostrations, are inspired by a pride which in reality seems even a comparison with races of the West. It is extremely difficult for people who have not entered into commercial relations with Japan to understand this uncompromising conviction of superiority which Asiatics, and particularly the Japanese, entertain. The people of Japan point out that the Jew, as the chosen of God, had his day. The Anglo-Saxon, the "blond beast" of modern conquest—has been having his unbroken career of dominion. It is now the turn of the finer-grained Oriental, who, having developed an enlightened cosmopolitanism purged of every taint of provincial prejudice, and owing its inspiration to a mission that traces his lineage to a god, is to march forth with a message not only to the nations of the East but to all mankind.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

WORLD'S FAIR LAVATORIES.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Would like to state that party who wrote that other fair did not charge admission to lavatories, is mistaken. I do not know about Chicago Fair and others, but having attended the Pan-American Exposition I know through personal experience that they charged 5 cents admission to their lavatories. If women will inquire at the pay lavatory, near Lindell entrance, where a free lavatory can be found, they will be told in a polite way given.) Five cents should not be too much for even one of many means to pay, considering the accommodation of also having the World's Fair dust. But I do think children should be admitted free, for a charge of 5 cents each works hardship on a mother with three or four children, and the World's Fair management should give this their attention.

REASONABLE.
HELPFUL CRITICISM.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Your paper deserves infinitely more than does any other in St. Louis the unqualified encouragement of every citizen, because of its intelligent promotion as well as safeguarding the city's trust in the Exposition. HOW THE CAMP WAS NAMED.

BY LOWELL OTUS REESE.

There may have been an onrider houn than Ole Bluey, but I would have to have proof before believe it. That ugly blue animal ought never been allowed to be born into this year's onrider world, because he didn't have the sense that any self-respecting fishworm ought to have; and what was worse, his pore master, which the same was me, had to suffer for his ignorance.

Long Bill Burke an' me was campin' out on the Mohave Desert several years ago. We'd hit up ag'in tough luck at Randsburg, and was doin' the long hike down to Kramer to investigate some little excitement we'd heard about in that vicinity. Now crossin' the desert ain't no picnic excursion. You have to figger mighty close or you'll decorate the desert with a choice assortment of bones which once belonged to yourself. Me an' Long Bill Burke had calculated about how much water an' provisions was going to be necessary, an' we'd have pulled through all right; but about half way across to Kramer the jackass snagged ag'in a yucca spine and went dead lame. So we had to crawl along, as it were; an' on the evening of the day I'm figurin' on tellin' about, we went into camp with nothing to eat but a hunk o' bacon an' a pot o' coffee. That gone we hadn't a crumb her a drop of water—and Kramer was high onto a day's travel ahead of us.

"This year is tough luck, Bill!" says I.

"You've named it all right," says Bill.

"But we'll just boil that pot o' coffee and pour it in our canteen so's we have it to drink on the march tomorrow. We'll try the bacon, too, an' by economizin' right down to the limit, I deems we pull through tomorrow—some little hungry an' thirsty, but all there."

So after I staked out the burro an' gets him started to gnawin' greasewood, we gets out the bacon an' slices it up ready for the pan, puts the coffee in the pot and empties in the last drop of our precious water. Then we goes comin' around huntin' chunks of petrified yucca to cook it by. Wood's scare in them wastes, and you has to hunt mighty assiduous before you finds enough to cook a pot of coffee.

We're returning to camp plumb tired out, when Bill remarks to me that he could eat a bulldog stuffed with carpet tacks.

"And I'm that thirsty," says I, "that I could drink soapuds an' never bat an eye." Just then we comes into camp an' looks around for our bacon. They ain't none to be seen, an' there Ole Bluey eat with a happy smile on his face, an' waggin' his tail a heap furiously as he welcomed us back to camp with our armloads of wood which we was to cook our bacon with—an' there wasn't any bacon left!

I 'low I've heard considerable profanity in my time, from first to last, but the article Long Bill Burke dishes up for this year's special occasion is before I keeps silent. I've ever listened to before. I keeps silent.

"You've named it all right," says Bill.

"You've named it all right," says Bill.

"Sam," He Says, "I Name It 'Camp Licksillet!'"

an' when he stops and wipes his fevered brow I hasn't anything to add. Ole Bluey listens with a look of doubt on his face, and he reaches first one face, an' then the other to see what it's about. He ain't seem to get a line on it at all, but after a while he sort o' gets a notion that we're feeling unfriendly to him about somethin', and he sneaks out in the dark to keep the burro company.

But we builds the fire—for the evening's chilly on the desert—and then we discusses old Bluey's future a heap grave an' serious. "Of course we slays him," says Long Bill. "Shore!" says I, for I was hungry, an' I was yearnin' for revenge. "But, Bill," says I, "they's nadin' to eat between yers an' Kramer; so let's let the darn coyote live till we get good and ready to chaw him—an' then he'll be fresh meat a whole lot."

Long Bill cogitated plenty deep. "That's a good idee," says he, "an' we let's him live till dinner tomorrow."

Then we spreads out our blankets an' tries to go to bed. But that awful gnawin' simply won't let us. We're shore hungry an' no mistake.

I goes over to the pack after awhile an' starts rummagin' in an' amless sort of a way, hopin' to pick out a dried prune that'd sort of escaped us, when suddenly I runs up to a pint of corn meal which we'd tied up in the heel of the little meal bag and "forget" it!

"Bill," I yells, "we're saved."

For a moment I thinks Bill shore means to go loco. But after awhile he tears out into the dark after some more wood. I picks up the canteen an' runs over to a brackish little sinkhole, an' after workin' a good while manages to get a few drops of the greenish water. It'd make a sort of flapjack, anyway, even though it was too alkali to drink. Then I goes back to the fire and meets Long Bill just comin' in with another load of wood.

We both stops simultaneous, anad bursts into long, loud and heartfelt cussin' which wells up from the bottom of our souls and flows like water.

For there was that dod-dered jackass busy chawin' the string that'd been on the little meal bag! The coffee pot was upset! The meal bag was gone!

We takes a sick of wood, specks, and chases the burro away out into the brush. But the faithful beast don't go away none. Neither does Ole Bluey. And all night they takes turns a-howlin' their woes and a-tellin' their 'wings to the silent stars, while me an' Long Bill Burke digs up some greasewood roots and astonished our pore sufferin' stomachs with the same, roasted to a nasty, sizzin', black wad.

Along about midnight, just when I'm thinkin' maybe I'll get asleep after all, Long Bill Burke raises up sudden an' paws at my blankets to wake me up.

"Sam," he says, "I names it 'Camp Licksillet!'" They ain't no answer. Away out in the desert pore Ole Bluey is fightin' with a coyote. The jackass is wanderin' around the camp with tears in his eyes an' an occasional skroaky sigh.

An' that's how Camp Licksillet got its name.—The Argonaut.

As to the Ear Lobule.

It has been said that slant-eyed folk are gentler—not the slant, however, of the Chinese of Japanese eye, but the opposite. What of the lobule of the ear? One of the prettiest women in New York has cried her eyes out, figuratively speaking, many a time because her ears are lobeless. What should be the lobule grows fast to the side of her neck. She often wears her hair a la Merode to hide this defect. But a great many people are built that way. They have no soft, depending, fleshy part of the ear, so highly characteristic of the human race. Some anthropometrists contend that lobules indicate a higher order of development; yet the chimpanzee's ear is more perfect in this respect than that of multitudes of the human race.

The ear in its physical aspect is wonderfully interesting and as an adjunct may indicate character. I know a man who can flap his ears. He is as common as pig tracks, but is neither ass nor donkey. Fierpont Morgan has a medium-sized ear with heavy, thick lobules. They lie comparatively close to his head. John A. Stewart's ears resemble a Linnhaven Bay oyster. George Gould has no lobules. Calvin S. Dyer had the largest ears in Wall street. It is generally believed that large ears indicate honesty.—New York Press.

Hiawatha on the World's Fair.

Wm. F. Kirk, in the Milwaukee Sentinel.

"Just returned," said Hiawatha. "From the city of St. Louis. From the home of graft and hoodle. From the stately Exposition. Where the thousands flock, my dearies. To take in the great exhibits. Offered by the vaqueros and nations. I have seen the Igorrotes. Eating dog and doing dances. In extremely thin apparel; I have seen the Pike, my children. Where the little Turkish maiden Doses the minuet, etc.

These things have I seen, and others. Far too numerous to mention.

But one thing I want to tell you:

When you do the Exposition—

When you reach the midway lay out,

Look up the Wisconsin building.

Have a chat with Big Chief Thomas.

See the mighty clock—I saw it.

And 'tis really worth the seeing.

"What is it the clock you ask me—

That, alas, I can not tell you.

"By the way, my little dearies,

If you wish to find a building

Do not try to get aguide book.

For the guide book is a puzzle

And you cannot guess the answer.

Thursday afternoon, while looking

For the great Kentucky building—

For the home of lovely Bourbon,

I approached a man and asked him

"Where is the Kentucky building?"

"Just a minute," he responded.

"I can find it in the guide book;

Kindly carry my umbrella.

And I'll get it in a minute."

There we stood and read the guide book

While the rain came down in torrents—

Read the book from start to finish.

Mastered the exact location

Of some things we didn't care for.

And discovered, after standing

In the wet for ten long minutes,

That the guide book made no mention

Of a building for Kentucky—

Anyhow, we couldn't find it.

Then I swore to knock the guide books,

Swore to knock the men who sell them,

And I've hurried home to do it."

Did I Do It?

Not long ago a New York woman, a school teacher, weary of her monotonous work, picked up a little book, "The Transfiguration of Miss Philura," by Florence Morse Kinsley. Simply amused at first, she read how Miss Philura, an unattractive spinster, taking a "New Thought" lecture literally, really succeeded in making her self pretty and charming by thinking herself so, and, by the same simple process, obtained from "The Encircling Good" various other blessings, including a husband.

Half in fun, half in earnest, the New York teacher declared that she meant to give Miss Philura's plan for the realization of happy matrimony a thorough trial.

"I must have a husband somewhere, or I shouldn't have thought of him," she said laughingly to an intimate friend. "So I have decided to stop teaching and get married. He is at this moment in 'The Encircling Good,' and I want him right now."

She jokingly repeated at intervals these statements to her friends, little realizing their fateful power. Like Miss Philura she had unwittingly set into operation the law of attractions, a law as undeviating and inevitable in its action as that of gravitation—at least so said the Wise Woman.

When, lo and behold, to the great astonishment of everybody, a man—the man—stepped forth from "The Encircling Good" and promptly claimed his own.

"It is positively weird," declared the bride-elect the other day. "I feel exactly like a medieval enchantress. Do you really suppose I did it?"

FIGHT WILL BE ONE OF TORPEDO-LIKE PUNCHES

Robert Edgren Says Miner Jack Munroe Is Well Prepared to Care for This Department of Champion Jeffries' Game.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 10.—There will be a fight between champion Jim Jeffries and Jack Munroe, a heavy puncher that he let go will have the destroying power of a torpedo. Any one of these blows would cause a less rugged boxer to sink like a Russian battleship. At every fight between giants, the rugged fellows with bulging eyes the delivery of each stupendous smash. It is the power behind the blows that makes a fight between unyielding men a fascinating spectacle.

The onlooker rises in his seat every time a smash goes home, and he is in a state of perpetual wonder because the battered one remains on his feet. But the big men are able to take punishment in proportion to their size.

Jimmy Britt might smash Jeffries on the chin and Jeffries would scarcely notice the blow. Munroe has a torpedo-like punch, and it might send a Jimmy Britt over four counties. But a torpedo would not blow up the rock of Gibraltar and it would take a score of Munroe's punches to make any impression on the giant Jeffries.

At the same time it would take many of the champion's punches to worry Munroe.

This won't be a case of one punch and art for the dressing room, no matter how much Jeffries may be thirsty for revenge. The battle affair.

Jeffries is a desperate body fighter. He would that first in his battle with Tom Sharkey. The doughy soldier had fought severely and furiously and the engagement was nearly over. Jeff knew that he must make a showing now or lose. He began meeting Sharkey's headlong rushes, throwing his body forward and driving his right fist wrist-deep into the sailor's ribs. The same bent and saluted under the impact. Again and again Jeff hammered in that right hand.

Sharkey was unable to guard against the blows, and only his unequalled gameness and endurance enabled him to fight right up to the last long. This is one of the Jeffries specialties that the miner has mastered. Munroe used the same tactic on Sharkey in the recent fight in Philadelphia with great effect.

Then returning to the champion there is the blow that practically won him the championship. In his first fight with Fitzsimmons he hit his chin, dropping him to a sitting position on the floor. The smash stazed Fitz and he never fully recovered from the effect of it until the fight was over and he had lost the title.

In the last Fitzsimmons fight in Frisco, Jeffries would afford up with a left hook. This time the blow started like the one that did the damage in the first conflict. Fitz had often explained to me just how it happened. He was watching Jeff's dangerous left and he saw it start apparently for a hook at the chin, but it suddenly changed the direction of the blow, curved it down without stopping it, and sent his fist into Bob's stomach. It was a finisher. That ability to change the direction of a blow without stopping it, drawing his hand back is one of the things that makes Jeff dangerous. He can hit hard in any direction, for his arms are of the strongest and quality of steel.

Now for Munroe. The miner is less known than Jeff and has not had many chances to show what he can do in a ring. However, I saw all of his amateur fights and his recent battles with Maher, Limerick and Sharkey, and if I have missed any tricks that he knows either he has been keeping them under cover or he has learned them since going West for this battle with Jeff. Munroe has a great left-hand jab. He is one of the very few men who can score a clean knockdown with the straight left.

In Philadelphia he clipped Tom Sharkey

GAME TO CORE, WALSH IS BEATEN

Jack "Twin" Sullivan Proves His Class in Fifteen-Round Bout at West End Club.

Any Walsh of Brooklyn proved his courage and his lack of class when he was battered around the ring for 15 rounds and even defeated in his bout with Jack "Twin" Sullivan at the West End Club Thursday night.

Walsh probably had a little the best of the first round, when neither man landed any hard blows, but excepting for a few spots when he developed a burst of speed he never had a look-in from that round on.

Walsh's gameness was above suspicion, but his gameness ends his fighting qualities. He avoided a great deal of punishment and fought coolly all the time, but he also ran into a great deal of punishment and was apparently unable to protect his body, for Sullivan seldom failed to land when he played for the stomach.

His capacity for taking a beating appeared to be unlimited, for he was on the verge of a knockout, but managed to come back. His hitting was wild and ineffective, while Sullivan hit with the cool accuracy of a fighter. In brief, Walsh deserved credit for standing 15 rounds with a man who outclassed him.

The crowd displayed a great deal of enthusiasm, and mostly for Walsh, as the St. Louis crowd is generally with a game loser. In the first round Walsh repeatedly pushed Sullivan's head back with straight punches, and to the surprise and delight of the crowd, he kept it there.

His success was short-lived, for "Twin" came back in the second and opened with a terrific left of Walsh's wind. He used the left hand almost entirely, pushing it straight in Walsh's face and knocking and whipping it to his body.

He drove Walsh around the ring, and they found him all his in the third round. He caught the Brooklyn man cleanly on the chin with right and Walsh batted his eyes. Before he could protect himself, a sharp left came onto the same place, and then another right. Walsh was dizzy and in his desire to do the fight quickly Sullivan fought too wildly and gave Walsh an opportunity to clinch. He held on, stalled to the end of the round and came back stronger in the fourth.

Sullivan's left swung to the body, reduced Walsh to a knockout condition in the fourth round. Sullivan's punches on the jaw and stomach, but was too tired to end it. Both men fought desperately in the closing rounds and though the crowd was with Walsh there was no murmuring when Referee Sheld held up Sullivan's hand.

Frankie Howe won from Kid Noonan on a knockout in the third round. He went down to the floor with a punch in the stomach and was badly punished when Sharkey stopped the fight. In the windup Ned Boettger stopped W. Van Dyke.

Australian Jimmy Ryan and Mike Schreck challenged the winner of the main event, but they were not allowed to enter the ring with the announcement that he would be made with a good man in the near future. Red Mason, an amateur, offered to bet Sullivan that he could beat any man in the world at 125 pounds, and Mark Gumpertz put up a $500 forfeit that Attell would meet him and beat him at that weight.

Johnny Regan was also reintroduced with the announcement that he would probably appear next Thursday.

CORBETT SAYS WILL OPEN FIGHT CLUB IN ST. LOUIS

James J. Corbett announces that he will probably open a fight club in St. Louis. He will personally conduct the club and the match-making if the venture is a success.

Corbett says that he can find the best fighters in the country to St. Louis and that he will make it a national reputation as a boxing center.

I think that there is a field here for a great club, the St. Louis club, and he will turn out strong for a great fight," said Corbett. As soon as I can find a building to suit me or will make a man like Young Corbett, Jimmy Britt, Eddie Hanlon and others of that class.

WOULD MANDAMUS THE COURT

Litigant Contends He Wasn't Fairly Treated by Judge Burkhead.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 10.—In the Missouri Supreme Court in banc an application for an alternative writ of mandamus against Circuit Judge Ashby Burkhead of Taney County was filed today to compel him to hear the motion of George Reynolds for a new trial in a case in the Lempel Land and Improvement Co. The following officers were elected: Dr. C. S. Waden, Sedalia, president; A. L. Thomas, Tipton, vice-president; H. Carter, Sedalia, secretary; D. H. Jones, Sedalia, treasurer; Rev. E. D. Wilson, Booneville, chaplain; J. H. Jones, Booneville, chaplain; J. H. Jones, Booneville, chaplain; J. H. Jones, Booneville, chaplain.

The case of the Lempel Land and Improvement Co. against Spellings and others was tried before Judge Burkhead on November 1, and he adjourned his court to the 15th of December, without doing so, but, some time during the vacation, he entered judgment in favor of the company and dated the same back to November 1, 1903. Reynolds contends in his petition that he was deprived of his right of rehearing and appeal because the decision of the court was rendered in vacation, thus leaving him unable to get a hearing before the court on a motion for a new trial until after the statutory time had lapsed.

Journey Long Way to Wed.

From Massachusetts to California is a long way, but not so long when you make childhood sweethearts forget, as was proved by David P. Mason of Newburyport, Mass., and Miss Caroline Milford. They took out a license to marry Friday, June 4, and will have the ceremony performed Saturday morning by Dr. Cunningham of 114 Locust street. A journey of 10,000 miles and back again takes some time, and Mason, who is an orchestra leader, played at the wedding. He succeeded in getting the young woman to leave the distance by coming to see the Fair and being married here.

LEND GEISHA GIRLS AT FAIR JUST LIKE THEY'D LEND PALMS

A World's Fair Geisha Girl.

Happy Little Women of Japan Have Nothing to Say When the Commissioner Wants to Borrow Them for a Reception—They Go and Make Merry.

Borrowing Geisha girls is the custom at the World's Fair. When the German commissioner wants to give an afternoon function he borrows the Geisha girls to serve tea. When the Japanese celebrations are held at the Imperial Japanese garden the Geisha girls are also borrowed. Like the palms and the living floral decorations, they are brought before the function starts and are taken away when it is done. Up to the present time, however, but one real Geisha girl has been in the borrowed party. That is Akko Kitamura. Within the last few days a party of Geisha girls has arrived from Japan. None of them has as yet been borrowed. The other borrowed ones are young women students from the Japanese schools, whose only duty is to serve tea while at the Exposition. They do not sing or dance, and are not Geisha girls. When borrowed the young women seem to forget for the time being that they are any place else but at home, and act accordingly. They have not the manner of servants, but act more as if they were the children or other young relatives of the hosts or hostesses.

They try to reply when spoken to, although their command of English is small. They are not annoyingly humble, neither are they at all presumptuous. The secret of the fact that they are much borrowed seems to lie in the fact that they give a pleasant air of happiness to the affairs at which they are present. The attention they receive from men is courteous, almost paternal, their apparent preference for the society of women makes them much liked by their own sex. Persons who did not understand the way affairs are managed in Japan supposed that the young women were Geisha girls, and so named them before the real Geisha girls arrived.

A Geisha girl is one who is a professional singer, dancer and musician. Akko Kitamura, who is with the young women students, is the sister of Arashi Gianso, a well-known Japanese actor. He objected seriously when his little sister, who had been educated in the grammar schools of Japan, expressed a desire to be a Geisha girl. With force he advised her to have nothing to do with the professional life, saying that he could speak with experience of its joys and sorrows, and the preponderance of the latter.

Like an American girl she finally had her way and won much success. The young women, who are usually known as Geisha girls, are in charge of Mr. Hoshi at 5642 Cabanne avenue. To him go all those who wish to borrow a party of young women to make glad their receptions.

SPIDER BITE PROVES FATAL

Tennessee Woman Succumbs to Insect's Wound After Suffering Intensely for Several Hours.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 10.—Mrs. Laura Wilson, widow of Prof. J. C. Wilson, while dressing Wednesday evening, was bitten on the hip by a spider. She summoned medical aid and, although antidotes and opiates were administered, her suffering became intense. Physicians, baffled at the turn the case had taken, continued at her bedside all night. The patient's body began to swell and when she died it had swollen to almost twice its normal size and turned nearly black. Several large black spiders of a poisonous variety were found today in the room where Mrs. Wilson was seated when bitten. Mrs. Wilson was in excellent physical health at the time of the bite.

Train Via World's Fair Grounds. Commencing Monday, June 13, eastbound Wabash trains leaving Union Station at 9:00 and 9:22 a. m. and 8:30, 9:36 and 11:32 p. m. for Chicago and the East, will run via World's Fair Station and Merchants' Bridge. These trains may be taken at World's Fair Station and the grand illumination of Fair Grounds may be viewed from night trains.

Milliken Offers Endowment. DECATUR, Ill., June 10.—The Anna B. Milliken Home of this city has received John A. Offer of $2,000 from the estate of Milliken, a local banker, provided the trustees can secure pledges for $250 annual subscriptions. The home is conducted for children and old women.

New Firemen Named. Fire Chief Charles E. Swingle has appointed the following new members of the department: Philip Grader, Maurice Sheedy, Michael Ratigan, Frank Connell, Thomas Canavan and William Kane.

Jackson, Tenn., Sleeper. On and after June 13 will leave 11:35 p. m. via Illinois Central.

JUDGE ORDERED A NEW JURY

Cases of Saloon Keepers, After Exhausting Dilatory Pleas, Again Go Over Until June 17.

When the case of Daniel Naughton and Michael O'Donnell, charged with running an improper dance hall at 2322 Olive street, came up for trial in the Dayton Street Police Court Friday morning, Judge Pollard discharged the jury as being unsatisfactory and continued the case until June 17.

Judge Pollard would make no statement as to why the jury was unsatisfactory, but said he had informed the marshal to be more careful in his selection for the new venire.

Naughton and O'Donnell were arrested on the night of May 8 with several women frequenters of the dance hall. Their case was set for May 10 in the City Hall Police Court, but was continued by the city until May 20. When the case next came up for trial the defendants asked for a continuance and May 25 was set for the trial, but on that date the defendants asked for a change of venue and the case was sent to the Dayton Street Police Court, and trial was set for June 9. In the meantime Naughton and O'Donnell had asked and had been granted trial by jury. Judge Pollard continued the case from June 9 to 10, and this morning continued it until June 17, and asked the marshal to provide a new jury. The case of the girls arrested in Naughton and O'Donnell's hall also was to have been tried today, but was continued until June 17.

Maplewood Couple Weds.

D. E. Purnell, who gave her age as 37, and Mrs. N. E. Tucker, aged 33, both of Maplewood, appeared Thursday afternoon before the marriage license clerk at East St. Louis and obtained a license. The couple then proceeded to the residence of Rev. W. W. Edwards of the First Methodist Church at Winstanley and were made man and wife.

THREW HER BABY TO DEATH

Mother, Frightened by Approach of Flames, Dashed Little One to Pavement Three Stories Below.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Frantic with fear at a fire in a six-story tenement house on Stanton street, Mrs. Benjamin Apfel threw her only child, a babe of 4 months, from a window of her apartment to death on the pavement three stories below. Mrs. Apfel was prevented from leaping to the street after her child by firemen who had climbed to the third story on scaling ladders, and whose arrival an instant earlier would have saved the child from death. More than a score of persons, who occupied apartments on the three upper floors of the building, and who had been unable to escape through the flame-swept halls, were taken in safety from the fire escapes by means of scaling ladders.

Car Hit Visiting Brewer.

Edward G. Miner of Rochester, N. Y., who has been attending the brewers' convention in St. Louis, is at St. Louis Hospital, suffering from serious injuries received in a street car accident at Twelfth and Olive streets Wednesday night. He stepped from behind one car in front of another. His injuries consist of two broken ribs, a sprained wrist and a scalp wound. It is not thought his injuries will prove fatal.

What Man Likes=

A man may admire the Chou in a girl's artistically arranged hair, or the one that gives just the right finish to her dainty neck gear, but his only real live interest, whether he be a pessimist, optimist, or merely in love=centers in the sole and heel of his own shoe.

It's a wise man who knows his own foot—but he is doubly wise who knows that at Boehmer's he can get a shoe that will satisfy not only his ideal of style and finish, but every requirement of his individual foot.

Remember that we shall be glad to see you—and shall be pleased to show you our splendid line of Men's shoes—it is worth much to us to have our shoes known. Call
